

A BOMBER COMMAND MUSEUM OF CANADA BULLETIN

2012-11-06

Join us at the Bomber Command Museum
for Remembrance Day - Sunday, November 11th

With the City of Calgary's Mosquito Aircraft now on display at our museum, we will be focusing on the Canadian aircrew who lost their lives during World War II while flying in this iconic aircraft. 56 airmen lost their lives flying Mosquitoes in Canada and almost 300 overseas.

The names of the Canadians who were killed while flying in Mosquito Bombers with Bomber Command will be highlighted on Canada's Bomber Command Memorial Wall.

During Nanton's Remembrance Day Services at 11:00, Bob O'Connor, a wartime Mosquito navigator with 627 Squadron of the Pathfinders, will lay a wreath in their memory.

At 1:30 pm we will be showing our recently released documentary, "The Belgian Forest," that tells the story of the Canadian Halifax Bomber that crashed in 1944 and how the aluminum from the aircraft became part of the Bomber Command Memorial in London.

Our museum is pleased to announce that we will be co-hosting a book launch at the Museum of the Highwood in High River on December 1st at 1:30. The biography, "Wings over High River – Conversations with A. Gordon Jones," was written by Anne Gafiuk and published by the museum. Details will be forwarded in an upcoming Bulletin.

Museum Admission, as always, is by Donation
